JUNE 2023

SAVE RHINOS, TO SAVE PEOPLE, TO SAVE TOMORROW

Winter Has Arrived and We Urgently Need Your Support!

Winter has arrived at Care for Wild. The temperatures are dropping to 2 degrees centigrade in the early morning and frost glistens on top of the rhinos' middens! Care for Wild works closely with ecologists and nutritionists to determine when the natural vegetation in the veldt is no longer sufficient to sustain our rhino population and then we transition the rhinos to a predominantly supplemented diet during the winter months. Ensuring the rhinos receive the correct nutrition is of utmost importance, especially for those small orphans who are still growing and developing, and for nursing mothers.

During the winter months, we take additional measures to provide the rhinos with the nourishment they need. We supplement their diet with teff and lucerne bales as well as introduce specially formulated pellets for younger orphans. Lucerne and pellets quantities are carefully calculated based on each rhino's individual weight so that we do not overfeed and cause colic or loose stools.

Winter Monthly Usage: 164 teff bales, 800 Lucerne Bales, 160 x 40kg bags of pellets

How You Can Help Support the Winter Food Appeal 2023

You have multiple options to contribute to feeding the rhinos this winter. To make a donation, simply click on the link provided below, which will direct you to our website. There, you can choose to donate through various methods, including credit/debit card, Paypal or direct bank transfer.

Grateful for 9 Years of Support from TRAC N4

In 2014, Wyntir, Tana, and Mabush were rescued after their mothers were killed by poachers. These three rhinos were brought to Care for Wild Rhino Sanctuary, where they were introduced to each other during the early stages of ICU. They embarked on a shared journey of rehabilitation before progressing to the rewilding and release program in 2017. In 2022 Wyntir gave birth to the first calf born globally to two orphans of poaching.

TRAC's support for Care For Wild started in 2014 under the Environment portfolio and has developed into a formidable partnership which not only directly benefits the four ' TRAC rhinos' (Wyntir, Tana, Mabush and Blizzy) housed at the centre, but other conservation initiatives led by CFW.

Trans African Concession (TRAC), manages the TRAC N4 Route from Solomon Mahlangu off ramp in Tshwane Gauteng to the Maputo Port in Mozambique. This 570km-long toll road is a BOT (Build, Operate and Transfer) and is also the only international toll concession in Southern Africa. The route signage, road surface and road markings are of the highest quality to ensure motorists can travel with peace of mind. The TRAC N4 Route has been designed to world class standards with a focus on safety, convenience, and ease of travel.

TRAC has come a long way since its inception and, as the concessionaire responsible for the N4 Maputo Development Corridor, they focus their efforts on communities, towns and organisations along the route. TRAC's support to these elements is led by our Corporate Social Investment (CSI) department, which focuses on six core upliftment portfolios namely Socio-Economic Development, Road Safety, Environment, Health & Welfare, Education and Sports & Culture.

"TRAC is proud of the pivotal role we play in supporting life-changing conservation initiatives, such as the ones run by CFW," says TRAC's CSI executive manager Adri Fourie. "By doing so, we not only make an immediate difference in the animals' lives, but we also play a part in trying to ensure that vulnerable species do not become extinct and can still be admired and enjoyed by the next generation in our communities," she adds.

New Mounted Unit Recruits Begin Training

THANK YOU INVESTEC

A group of new rangers has embarked on an intensive three-month training course, preparing them to join our esteemed Mounted Unit. This comprehensive program, led by expert Australian horseman James Coleman and generously funded by Investec, delves into a wide range of specialized topics, including:

- Horse handling and riding skills
- Stable management and maintenance
- Feeding procedures in both stable and patrol environments
- Equipment types and maintenance
- Dismounted and mounted tactics
- Day and night operations
- Prisoner of War (POW) handling
- Fitness training focusing on strength, balance, endurance, and resilience
- Operating in small patrol groups or larger sections
- Long-range, scouting, mapping, and reconnaissance patrols
- Executing attacking patrols
- Following orders from ranking troopers
- Developing self-discipline and section discipline
- Effective communication with ranking troopers
- Dismounted and mounted drill exercises

The recruits are fully aware that the upcoming three months will be challenging. However, their dedication and successful completion of the course will earn them a coveted position within Care for Wild's esteemed Mounted Unit.

Pangolin Conservation: Rescued Pangolins arrive at Care for Wild

Care for Wild is providing support for two recently rescued young pangolins, who were victims of the illegal wildlife trade. In collaboration with the Johannesburg Wildlife Veterinary Hospital and the African Pangolin Working Group, Care for Wild is currently taking care of these young pangolins, walking them and ensuring their well-being until they reach their ideal weight for release. Afterward, they will be relocated to a secure and undisclosed release site, where they will continue to be monitored to aid in their rewilding process.

To facilitate their development and natural feeding habits, our dedicated pangolin walkers spend 5-8 hours daily in the protected area. This environment allows the pangolins to feed on ants and termites as they would in the wild, while also honing their foraging and digging skills. One of our walkers has been a devoted caregiver for rhinos at Care for Wild for many years and has experience working with various other wildlife at our sanctuary. Our newest member of the pangolin team is proudly sponsored by Investec, and together, we are working collaboratively to protect yet another vulnerable species.

DID YOU KNOW?

Pangolins are hunted due to the high demand for their scales and meat. These unique creatures are sought after for their scales, which are believed to possess medicinal properties in certain traditional Asian medicinal practices. Additionally, pangolin meat is considered a delicacy and is consumed for its perceived health benefits or as a status symbol in some cultures. Unfortunately, this demand, coupled with habitat loss and illegal wildlife trade, has led to a significant decline in pangolin populations. As a result, they are currently the most trafficked mammals in the world, putting them at a high risk of extinction. Efforts to combat illegal wildlife trade and promote conservation are crucial in ensuring the survival of these remarkable animals in the wild.

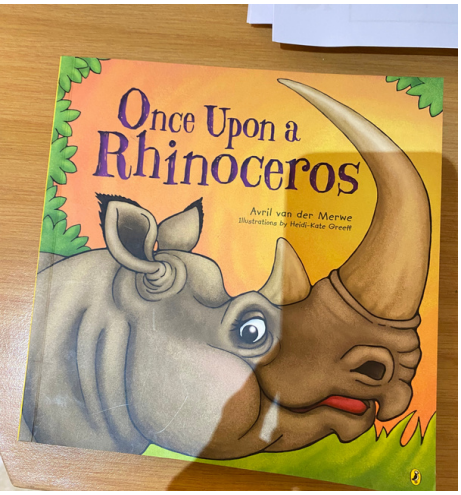

CFW Rhino Conservation School Launches Holiday Program

We're excited to share that Care for Wild's Rhino Conservation School has just kicked off our very first Kids' School Holiday Program! We're thrilled to welcome children from our local community for a fantastic mix of fun and educational activities. Our program is designed to not only enhance their English and Maths skills but also boost their self-confidence through interactive games and activities. The Rhino Conservation School is a true testament to our heartfelt commitment to providing education and support to the next generation.

Christian Ehrlich's 'Promis für Tiere' Charity Event: A Resounding Success for Care for Wild

We are thrilled to share the exciting news of a recent charity event organized by Christian Ehrlich which has raised significant funds for Care for Wild. The summer even of "Promis für Tiere" (Celebrities for Animals), took place in Germany and garnered tremendous support from the entertainment industry.

The event welcomed 120 guests, including well-known figures from German TV, film, and music. These celebrities took it upon themselves to initiate small projects to collect funds leading up to the event. Utilizing various platforms such as TV shows, Twitch, Instagram, and even their own birthdays, they successfully generated donations. One of the highlights of the evening was an auction of a painting by renowned comedian Otto Waalkes, which fetched an impressive 5,000 EUR. This artwork was purchased by the German presenter Barbara Klein and actor Guido Broscheit.

15,000 EUR has been donated to Care for Wild and is a true testament to the dedication and commitment of Christian Ehrlich, Frank Elstner, and the entire team behind "Promis für Tiere." This substantial donation will make a meaningful difference in Care for Wild's mission to protect and care for endangered rhinos.

THANK YOU SOCIAL MEDIA FAMILY AND PARCA

In early June, Care for Wild launched a social media fundraising appeal for new saddles for our Mounted Unit in the Anti-poaching team.

Thanks to the incredible support from our international social media family and the generous contributions of PARCA supporters, we are thrilled to announce that we achieved our goal! The horses of the Mounted Unit received their new and improved saddles and bridles.

We want to express our heartfelt gratitude to everyone who donated and shared the campaign. Your support has made a significant impact, and we are incredibly grateful for your loyalty and dedication. Together, we are making a difference in protecting endangered wildlife

THANK YOU MATT GROSMAN

Earlier this year, Matt Grossman donated a Mavic 3 Enterprise drone and recently got the opportunity to see it in action first-hand.

During his visit, Matt not only got to meet some of the orphans that the drone is protecting but also witnessed how the technology is enhancing our antipoaching efforts.

The drone, equipped with state-of-the-art thermal imaging technology, demonstrated its effectiveness in real time as it covered vast areas with speed and efficiency. Matt was amazed to see how the drone detected and captured imagery, showcasing its crucial role in protecting endangered species.

THANK YOU BLANKETS FOR BABY RHINOS & WINGS FOR ANIMALS

We would like to extend a heartfelt thank you to Blankets for Baby Rhinos and their incredible team of volunteers for their recent donation of handmade blankets. The love and care put into each blanket is truly remarkable, and Daisy absolutely adores them. Not only does Daisy enjoy her cosy blankets, but even Blessie, the baby Blesbok, is benefiting from these gifts. We would also like to express our gratitude to Wings for Animals for their assistance in flying these blankets to South Africa. The dedication and support from all the volunteers involved is truly inspiring. We are so grateful.

THANK YOU WAGS AND MENACE MAKE A DIFFERENCE PROGRAM FOUNDATION

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to the Wags and Menace Make a Difference Program Foundation for their invaluable donation through Baby Rhino Rescue, specifically towards the provision of milk powder for Zuri and the other orphaned rhinos. Since Zuri never took a bottle, her milk is prepared in a unique "lolly" form. This consists of milk powder mixed with a reduced amount of water, resulting in a thick and sticky consistency that adheres wonderfully to lucerne.

THANK YOU FFETA

We extend a heartfelt thank you to FFETA for their generous donation of R50,000 following the FFETA Charity Golf Day held on Friday, May 12th.

We deeply appreciate their support, which will greatly contribute to our ongoing mission to protect and care for endangered wildlife. FFETA's dedication to raising awareness for our organization is greatly appreciated and we are humbled to have them as allies in our conservation journey.

VOLUNTEER GROUPS

Care for Wild had the pleasure of hosting two volunteer groups, Michigan State University and Loop Abroad. We want to express our sincere gratitude to all the hardworking volunteers who dedicated their time and efforts to support our cause. Your commitment and dedication make a significant difference in the lives of our wildlife and conservation efforts.

Thank you for becoming ambassadors for Care for Wild and rhino conservation. If you're interested in volunteering, please reach out to us at volunteer@careforwild.co.za.
